I am happy to know that the Indian Police Foundation, New Delhi is publishing a Book of Remembrance to pay homage to Police/CAPF personnel who lost their lives due to Covid-19.

Covid-19 pandemic has disrupted lives across the world, and we must be thankful to the dedicated efforts by our frontline COVID warriors who have worked round the clock to contain this deadly virus.

In our collective fight against Coronavirus, every section of the society stood against it valiantly. While the doctors and paramedics worked day-night to save precious lives in hospitals, our police forces also played an equally stellar role in overcoming the challenges thrown up by this unprecedented health emergency.

In the absence of any effective medical treatment, imposing prolonged lockdowns, identifying containment zones and contact tracing became our primary strategies to control the Covid-19 pandemic. Our police and CAPF personnel risked their own lives to implement government guidelines relating to these and to regulate the movement of people and goods. On many occasions, by creating Green Corridors, police and security staff had ensured the supply of Oxygen and other life saving drugs to the needy patients in real time. Unfortunately, many of our security personnel were exposed to the Coronavirus and laid down their lives in the course of their duties.

I am sure the publication of a Book of Remembrance on Police/CAPF Personnel is an apt tribute to their selfless service during Covid-19 Pandemic. I salute these bravehearts for their sacrifice and exemplary commitment to their duty.
